

ABSTRACT

Defects in a blow molding process are reduced or eliminated by providing a small amount of a low molecular weight polyethylene glycol to the composition blow molded.